Peter Eason – AdvDipBus

Peter is married to Gillian, with three children and their families living in the South East Queensland region.

Peter has an Advanced Diploma in Business, is a qualified Surveyor and Mining Supervisor and has also completed the Australian Institute of Company Directors' course.

He started up and operated a mining services company for over 25 years in the Hunter Valley which grew to employ more than 200 people with an annual revenue stream in excess of $20 million.

During that time the company received Outstanding Business Awards in Singleton and won the NSW Premiers Award for safety initiatives in the mining industry.

Peter also established a successful Joint Venture with the Chinese Government running drilling/ventilation projects in their provinces.

He has been involved with many community organisations including in president/director roles for a golf club, RSL, international youth exchange programme, athletics and tennis clubs. Peter has also been a mentor for young people through the 'Max Potential' programme.

Peter was part of Singleton's Council's Development Committee and a member of the Business Chamber for many years.

He is an active sportsperson including running, cycling, tennis and golf with a lifetime of playing rugby and cricket and has interests in art, music and writing.

Peter enjoys working with like-minded people achieving community based outcomes.
